THE OUTSIDE DOG IN THE FIGHT.

You may sing of your dog, your bottom dog, Or of any dog that you please; I go for the dog, the nice old dog, That knowingly takes his ease,

And wagging his tail outside the ring, Keeping al ways it is bone in sight, Cares not a pin in his sound old head, For either dog in the fight,

Not his is the bone they are fighting for, And why should my dog sail in, With nothing to gain but a certain chance To lose his own precious skin.

There may be a few perhaps who fail To see it quite in this light; But when the fur flies I had rather be The outside dog in the fight.

I know there are dogs-injudicious dogs-That think it is quite the thing To take the part of one of the dogs, And go yelping into the ring. But I care not a pin what all may say In regard to the wrong or the right,

THE disagreement of the jury in the Lee case disappoints but few persons who understand the radical defects in our jury law. By the provisions of the "Poland Bill," the jury list is made up one-half of Mormons and one-half of Gentiles, an arrangement which no fair-minded man could object to, if the former were fit to be entrusted with the rights and duties of American citizens. But their conduct in the jury box shows their utter unfitness for the excercise of any such trust. A Latter day Saint regards himself as one of God's peculiar people, and the everlasting priesthood are accepted as infallible ter is well known. Fleshy laws they affect to despise; the entire human race is under condemnation and will shortly be destroyed from off the face of the earth, that room may be made for the universal reign of the Saints. Mr. Baskin hit the nail on the head in his closing argument for the people. "If there is a man on this jury," said he, "who has been through that sink of inquity—the Endowment House, and wears endowment garments on his limbs, he will not find a verdict according to the law and the testimony. He has parted with his manhood; when he swore those lewd and blasphemous oaths which blind him a lifelong slave to the Mormon hierarchy, he divested himself of his individuality, and is under obligation to think and act as he is instructed."-[Salt Lake Tri-

But people were busy closing up their affairs for the evening and had no time to observe the lean, imploring face of the poor child, who timidly and imploringly endeavored to draw attention to the painting, last footsore and desparing, before giving up of California. Mr. Ralston saw her, kindly asked her errand, inquired about her sick mother, and then put his hand in his pocket and gave her a sum ample enough not only for food and fire, but also to defray many of the obligations that pressed upon the family. Nor did his charity end here. He procured them employment and that family is now in comfortable circumstances, but never will forget the saving hand that was extended to them on that Christmas Eve. How to Make Oil Lands Safe.-A great many accidents are happening every day fron the use of kerosene. I will tell you a method by which they can be, to a great extent, prevented, and I hope you will publish it for the benefit of poor people, who are obliged to buy cheap oils. If the body of the lamp is filled with cotton, such as jewelers use to wrap their articles in, after it is stuffed lightly, it will receive one-balf the quanity of oil which it would if the cotton were not put in. If any accident bappens, the oil cannot spill or flow about; but is, as it were, "sopped" up in the cotton, which burns like a faggot' but all in one place.

Priestly Conspiracy Against the Common Schools throughout the World. If the Catholic papers and priests had never assailed the school system nor solicited openly or by intrigue sectarian subsidies from the public treasury, as they did in New York and Kentucky and Maryland and Wisconsin, everybody knows there could have been no school controversy or cry of resistance to sectarian abuses of public money. The aggression came from those who are now trying to cover their machinations with the cloak of martyrdom. It is part of a general change in the tactics of the papa-Pope, and supported by the Ultramontanes who worship him. It is quite as obvious in Europe as here, and has produced even more disturbance there than here. The late (Ecumenical Council and the dogma of infallibility are but the culmination of this ominous return to the intolerance and aggressiveness of the worst ages of the papacy. In Europe, where States maintain a connection with resistance to civil laws, and denunciation of indispensable additions to the civil system. Here it appears in open hostility to a fundamental principle of free institutions, and in covert intrigues, often successful, to impose the support of the church institutions on the taxes of all denominations. In New York it took the form of dividing plunder with the thieves of Tammany. It has done much the same in Baltimore, Kentucky and
